COCO PALM HITS TENTH ANNIVERSARY Special 45% Off For Bookings Gifted to Guests

Rodney Bay Village, SAINT LUCIA (26 October 2015) Coco Palm, Saint Lucia's award winning boutique hotel turned ten years old this month with three days of festivities and the future looks promising with guests enjoying all the benefits. The locally owned hotel has found their niche both regionally and internationally catering to the leisure and corporate guests who rave about the warm hospitality and quality food. Guests are offered special anniversary savings of up to 45% off the all-inclusive package for bookings received by 30 November to celebrate Coco Palm's birthday.

Managing Director, Allen Chastanet, noted "we set out to offer an authentic Caribbean experience without compromise which we have achieved. Some of our guests have Caribbean roots but are well travelled or have lived abroad. They want to come back home and enjoy the tropics as they recall from their youth while enjoying the comforts they have become accustomed to in their own homes. This includes comfortable rooms, modern amenities and most of all, good food. We offer all that without busting the budget" said Chastanet.

Chastanet praised his Saint Lucian team who were celebrated during the recent anniversary. He said, "We have eighteen team members who have been with us from day one which is an asset we value as it is our people who make all the difference. The team give life to Coco Resorts and it is they who make the difference and as such we hosted a series of events to applaud them during our anniversary celebrations. For our guests, we offer huge savings and special offers for arrivals through 2016 with savings of up to 45% off" noted the Managing Director.

Chairman Michael Chastanet has also continued to invest in Coco Resorts with the recent addition of 30,000 square feet at the entrance of Coco Palm which has been cleaned and manicured and branded 'Palm Gardens'. The Chairman was quoted as saying "As an investor, one monitors the economic environment we operate in and it is clear the Rodney Bay Village has become a hub for both Saint Lucians and tourists. Consequently, we had our eye on this land as it was at the entrance to the hotel and it was really to our advantage to invest. Gardens and open space have been created with a new wedding gazebo recently built for a wedding catering for 80 guests who came in from abroad. This will not doubt become a preferred venue for both guests and the local market."

Coco Palm continues to improve as they keep up with the times and keep the property up to date. Jean St Rose, General Manager from opening day ten years ago who also heads up the Maintenance Department has overseen room improvements, flat screen TV's, energy saving devices, external painting of the building, new windows, WiFi improvements to name a few. KoKo Cabana restaurant was also given a lift with new men and women rest rooms upgraded for the comfort of our patrons. "We have a lot of repeat guests and we listen to their feedback of what would make their stay more enjoyable and this keeps us on our toes" noted St Rose.

Food & Beverage is an integral part of Coco Palm and the all-inclusive plan was created to meet the changing face of our guests. Chef Richardson who has been with the property from pre-opening days is re-known for his food given his Trinidadian background and experience in Martinique giving KoKo Cabana and Creole Grill a rich Caribbean flavor. Chef said "we cater to our guests, groups and diners from the area which is a wide scope to appease various palates but at no time do we compromise our quality of food". Events have also become an integral part of the business mix and the deciding factor is usually food with menus tailor made. Christmas and New Year's Eve menus are now available and promise to be something special from the Chef with reservations being taken for the limited spaces particularly on old years' night to ring in 2016.
